

design for learning

We work with schools to deliver stimulating environments which are fit for purpose.

Our work encompasses long term planning, project design and realisation.

We deliver spaces that work by asking you the right questions.

We start the design process with people, and how they will use and interact with the space. The larger picture follows from this.

We work from the inside out, so that your buildings suit your accommodation rather than your accommodation suiting your buildings.

From circulation space to drama studios, from cafeterias to SEN centres, we make exciting spaces that match your culture and budget. We aim to make staff and students proud of their school.
